Author and Illustrator Information

Author

After completing her BA Honours Degree in Childhood Studies, Cheryl worked for almost 20 years supporting children and young people who experienced social and emotional difficulties due to their experiences.

Cheryl had always dreamed of writing children's books and had always loved writing poetry. In April 2020 Cheryl's dream became a reality when her first book The Fairy who Sings was published.

As well as being an Author, Cheryl is also a mother to her 3 wonderful daughters who remind her that magic is all around us everyday.

Eduardo Paj is the extremely talented illustrator for The Fairy who Sings. He is the father of two wonderful boys.

Eduardo lives with his family in Quertaro, Mexico.

Book

During 1:1 support sessions with the children Cheryl worked with, Cheryl saw just how powerful a book can be and decided to fulfil her lifelong ambition of becoming a children's book author.

Cheryl contacted a company called Bear with Us Productions who helped bring her book to life with the help of the amazing illustrations by Eduardo.

Reviews

Amazon Review

A lovely book with a beautiful message for children about accepting differences and following your dreams - my 4 year old twins love it.

John Graham, Amazon Review

I loved how this book teaches kids to accept themselves and also appreciate others as they are for their differences, not feel the pressure to fit in or conform to a certain mould or expectation of others, but discover their own gifts and talents be courageous enough to use them despite what others think or say. Love it!

Readers' Favourite

'The Fairy Who Sings is packed with valuable lessons for young readers, the most important one being the power of one's inner beauty and the importance of believing in oneself. Told with love and compassion and, of course, with beauty. A lovely story, a real treasure.'
